

Dr Rachel Farmer

Biography

The trainer, Dr Rachel Farmer, is a UK business owner who specialises in cross-cultural awareness as a way of breaking down communication barriers and enabling successful international business relations.

This workshop is invaluable for enterprises looking to develop business and work in partnership with overseas companies.

Rachel is an accomplished communicator, keen to share her knowledge and experience in international business.

She has run her own training company, RSF Consultancy, for six years following a career in language teaching and business management, and has worked in the private and public sectors, with clients including SMEs, public sector and FTSE100 companies. For 12 years she taught Russian language and culture at the University of Nottingham.

Higher education: Bachelor of Arts with Honours; Post-Graduate Certificate of Education; PhD (Doctor of Science), National Vocational Qualification Assessor & Internal Verifier, Executive Coach.

Managing Director of RSF Consultancy, involved in training projects in Western Europe, Russia, Central Asia, India and Nigeria.